

Hudson Group Debuts New Hudson at Bill and Hillary Clinton National Airport

East Rutherford, N.J., May 31, 2018 – A new Hudson kiosk made its debut just in time for summer peak travel season at Bill and Hillary Clinton National Airport (LIT), offering a well-curated product assortment of reading materials, travel essentials, and electronics to meet the ever changing needs of gate-hugging passengers. Located near the mid-terminal area, the latest Hudson kiosk is part of a recent 10-year joint-venture contract extension, which includes over 3,540 square feet in retail space.

Hudson Group will continue to enhance the terminal’s retail offerings as part of the airport’s $25 million concourse renovation that is underway. Additional renovations include its pre-security store, Daily News, as well as the conversion of its existing News Exchange store to a Hudson concept, and the addition of a third Hudson store to be located by Gate 3.

“Bill and Hillary Clinton National Airport is Arkansas’s largest commercial service airport, with nearly two million passengers annually,” said Ronald F. Mathieu, executive director of Bill and Hillary Clinton National Airport. “From news walls to in-line stores, we look forward to building upon our partnership with Hudson Group in order to provide our passengers with enhanced retail offerings.”

“Hudson Group is excited to enhance our retail program at Bill and Hillary Clinton National Airport (LIT) to better service customers with the addition of our latest Hudson kiosk,” said Evan Schut, senior vice president of operations at Hudson Group. “We thank the LIT management team for their ongoing partnership, and we are honored to be a part of the airport’s modernization efforts.”
